This scholarship provides financial assistance to racial/ethnic minority union members and their families who wish to pursue postsecondary education at one of Minnesota's state universities or at one of the two year community and technical colleges that are part of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU). Those attending the University of Minnesota or a private school are not eligible for this scholarship.

Nellie Stone Johnson was a labor union activist with a long and distinguished record of public service in support of the advancement of minority concerns, the rights of workers and equal opportunities for all people. Her life can be chronicled as a series of "firsts." As a leader of organized labor in the 1930s and 1940s, she was the first woman vice president of the Minnesota Culinary Council and the first woman president of Local 665 Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union. She was also the first Black person elected to citywide office in Minneapolis when she won a seat on the Library Board in 1945. Her biography, Nellie Stone Johnson: Life of an Activist, is available for purchase from the Scholarship Committee.
